We are very pleased to be able to show an art exhibition at this year's Animal Rights Congress! This year it will take place in digital form - in the "Skydome" room, works of art will be shown on screens for the entire duration of the congress.

Contributions from over 20 international artists who work with a wide range of media are shown - from photography to painting, graphics, illustration, performance, sculpture, graffiti and digital art. What they all have in common is their commitment to the rights of non-human animals through their artistic work.

Their works make the reality of life for animals in the animal industry visible, shed light on speciesist attitudes and actions, imagine a role reversal in animal-human relationships, tell of an empathetic, respectful coexistence or depict utopian ideas of a lasting, healthy coexistence between humans and other animals.

Art can express many things for which words are too limited or abstract – a single picture often touches more deeply and lastingly than a hundred words and is able to convey messages on a different level.

Our big thanks go to the artists who dedicate their work to animals and make their work available to us for this exhibition!

Exhibition curation: Almut Hahn and Nicole Montaperti
Technical implementation: Franz Gratzer
